DuPont™ Envive™ herbicide ensures clean fields at soybean planting

"I tried DuPont™ Envive™ herbicide last season, applying it with 2,4-D and glyphosate in late March, then planting Roundup Ready soybeans at the end of May. Our fields were clean at planting, and I saw good weed control well into July when I made a second application of glyphosate.

"When I was making my burndown application, I ran out of Envive™ and finished one small corner of the field without it. The difference between the section without Envive™ and the rest of the field was evident by June. There was a lot more weed pressure in that area — I could really see a difference. I will definitely be using Envive™ again next season."
