

DuPont Statement on U.S. House of Representatives Passage of the American Clean Energy and Security Act

DuPont applauds the U.S. House of Representatives for passage of the American Clean Energy and Security Act.

We are pleased to see that the bill reflects many of the recommendations developed by the U.S. Climate Action Partnership (USCAP) -- a coalition of companies and non-governmental organizations which have come together to forge a consensus view regarding the United States' actions on the challenging issue of climate change. DuPont is a founding member of USCAP. We also are pleased to see that the bill makes significant improvements to address the concerns raised by agricultural producers. We believe that agriculture has an important role to play in addressing climate change and these changes are important to the legislation.

DuPont believes addressing climate change is an important priority for the U.S. We have been and will continue to be actively engaged in the development of the legislation to help ensure it is both environmentally effective and economically sustainable for our company, our customers and the US. We look forward to working with members of the U.S Congress to continue to improve the bill as it progresses through the legislative process.
