

Let's hear it for the scientists.

At DuPont, we're committed to developing safe, reliable products that improve performance—and meet changing industry regulations. Our new line of LX Platform Products increase the performance of popular fluorosurfactants like DuPont™ Zonyl®, reducing impurities and allowing formulators to create high-quality, low-VOC paints.

Added early into formulations, DuPont™ Zonyl® can replace a variety of other additives with multi-functional properties that eliminate craters, reduce foaming and blocking, and extend open time in architectural coatings. From improved anti-block properties to reduced dirt pickup in exterior applications, DuPont™ Zonyl® delivers superior, cost-effective performance.

Our wealth of reliable, safe ingredients, combined with market knowledge and technical expertise, provides the raw materials needed for product exploration and customization. This, as well as the trust the world has in us, affords our customers the freedom to innovate.
